Volunteer Stories

Kerra Bolton, Communication Manager

Volunteering for Africa ICT Right was a life-changing experience. It gave me the opportunity to help make a difference in the lives of so many people in a direct and practical way. I felt involved in the decision-making and planning. I was able to connect with people in a real and genuine way. I'm so grateful for Africa ICT Right and I'm honored to be part of the work they do in helping young Africans receive and leverage the tools they need to create a new life, community and world.

Bernadette Afful, Communication Officer

My experience with Africa ICT Right has been great. Volunteering has given me the opportunity to express my skills to its fullest. Project management has been my passion however Africa ICT right apart from my passion helped me explore the other side of me. Team work, field work, researching, planning, critical thinking have been some of the areas I have developed in. Getting to work with an organisation which shares your dream of impacting, reaching out and touching lives makes you fulfilled, I thank Africa ICT Right for making me feel as such while shaping me for other challenges as well.

What We Do

Africa ICT Right (AIR) is an ICT-oriented NGO established in 2007 and run by a team of volunteers. AIR was established in order to use Information and Communication Technology (ICT) tools to address critical national problems pertaining to the education, gender, youth empowerment and health in Ghana.

AIR was created out of the belief that the modern world is in the midst of a profound transformation in which personal computers, mobile phones and Internet technologies play critical role but there is great inequality in the distribution of these tools, which is detrimental not only to underserved communities, but also to our society.

We partner with donors, governmental and private institutions, NGOs and local communities to address this detriment through our integrated development programs that provide technological solutions and support directed at educational and health facilities especially in less privileged areas where the digital divide is at its greatest.

Thick & Capital letter & Font type

When it comes to reading a statement faster, some font types and sizes make reading harder.

Change The Font

We need to make a list of standard font types that we can use in the whole website. And to decide where? Like is it in the bottom? or photo? or....?

That doesn't mean the whole website must be in the same font type, but it means we can choose the right font type that will be clear and align with our logo, so, it could be three or five, or...., font types, not one, and we need to mention that where.

For example: (Arial Font type) we will be used for all bottoms in the website.

(changia font type) will be used for all the first names and (Amiri font type) for the last names.

Roles:

1-All the last names must be in the capital litter

2-All bottoms with the first letter in small letter and the rest in capital letter
